IN THIS FREE INTERACTIVE WEBINAR, Occupational Psychologist Christine Hamilton, and expert in meaningful living, Lani Morris, help you begin to work through a few of the areas you might need to explore.

As well, they will help you uncover a simple way to choose what's best for you.

"We're both at the age of retiring, and in our different ways working through these issues ourselves, and watching our friends and family doing the same. We've spent the last two years researching the field and testing out practical ways people can navigate creating a life in their later years."

If you are feeling overwhelmed, or simply avoiding thinking about retirement, or if you are already retired and wondering if there is more to life than you are currently experiencing, then come along to this free webinar, meet Christine and Lani and others in this stage of life.

Then see if our forthcoming workshop series could be just what you have been looking for. And, maybe bring a friend. These explorations are often so valuable when you do it with another.
